A member of the public raised an issue in connection with the process for approvals at White House Farm. Since the original consent there had been 11 amendments to the original plans and the buildings did not bear a close resemblance to those originally proposed. She felt that there was a lesson to be learned from this that Local Councils as Statutory Consultees should be prepared to make robust objections in order to bring consents before committee where they were seemed to be controversial/disputed. The muddy condition of Melbecks was noted as was the compaction of materials in drains throughout the town/
